Marijuana: Parenting for Prevention
An Operation Parent Program

Parents face more challenges than ever to having effective prevention conversations with their teens around marijuana use. Even though today's marijuana is more potent, perception of harm is at an all-time low due to legalization, medicinal use, and methods of ingesting like vaping and edibles, which seem so much easier and more palatable. We can't give up! In this webinar, we will discuss the landscape of cannabis products our kids may be exposed to, and learn about the important role parents play in preventing teen use.
