I Am One and I Make One Choice for Health: A Data-Informed, Youth-Driven Prevention Message for Parents

The adolescent brain is hardwired for risk-taking, making teens particularly vulnerable to substance use problems, including addiction. What you may not know is that there is a growing number of youth making the healthy decision not to use substances, and parents and community members can play a critical role in supporting that healthy choice. A national leader in the field of prevention for more than 50 years, Dr. Robert DuPont and his colleagues will share the latest research on the impact of drug use on the developing brain, and the ways that parents and other caring adults can promote the powerful trend across the country of youth making One Choice to be substance free.
